Yesterday, love was such an easy game to play . . . What a classic song. Still know the lyrics even though it was released 52 years ago.

#OTD #1966 the 'Yesterday' EP is released in the UK. ϖ Watch in full: gnikn.us/Yesterday

Paul: "We didn't release 'Yesterday' as a single in England at all, because we were a little embarrassed about it - we were a rock'n'roll band. (...) I remember thinking that people liked sad tunes; they like to wallow a bit when they're alone, to put a record on and go, 'Ahh.' So I put the first verse together, then all the words fitted and that was it. (...) I am proud of it."
With more than 2200 cover versions, Yesterday is one of the most covered songs in the history of recorded music.

Have not yet seen this film about Vincent Van Gogh, but plan to. Looks fascinating.

In the running for an Oscar, Loving Vincent is the first entirely oil-painted animation feature film in history. The film started as a short homage to Vincent Van Gogh, one of the most innovative and influential painters of all time, but quickly spiralled into a feature-length project after huge support for the project was found through Kickstarter.

The start of a lovely Fathers Day at Lahontan

Weekend getaway to Santa Barbara / Goleta for a 2-day tournament at Sandpiper GC. Liz handled the 9-hour drive yesterday from Truckee pretty well. Fabulous breakfast this morning at the Boathouse. Even better dinner last night at an outdoor table at Holdren's Steaks and Seafood in downtown Santa Barbara. Highly recommend both restaurants. Just came back from a quick drive around the UCSB campus and a tour of the Old Mission at Santa Barbara.

Day 1 in the books. Probably the hardest golf course I have ever played. Pot bunkers everywhere, tight fairways, 20+ mph breezes, many long par 4s unreachable by me into the wind. Only three net scores out of 15 in the 70s. No caddies today. Most of us carried our own bags. Welcome to Irish Golf. Today we are off to Lahinch Golf Club on the West Coast, #34 ranked in the World.

Day 2 of our Irish Golf Tour is in the books. The wind was up as you can see in the picture of the flags near the clubhouse. Our caddie often said 150 yards, playing 200. And what he really meant was it was everything in your bag, at times a five-club wind. Scores were about the same as yesterday -- about ten to twelve shots higher than normal for everybody in the group. We all had dinner and drinks in the Lahinch Bar and Restaurant overlooking the 18th green. Another great day.

Aboard the 16-story Crystal Reflection with 3,000+ of my best new friends Usited Key West yesterday. Will be in Costa Maya tomorrow morning and Cozumel the day after. This pic is of the beautiful elevators on the Reflection. I've discovered a fantastic library on the 10th level and a quiet corner on the top deck to catch up on my reading. Happy New Year everyone.
